Wednesday Group splits; Joker, Ralph join GMA team

By Norman Bordadora and Cynthia D. Balana

SENATE PRESIDENT MANUEL VILLAR WILL CAST HIS LOT with the United Opposition (UNO), Senators Ralph Recto and Joker Arroyo will go with Team Unity, and Sen. Francis "Kiko" Pangilinan will strike out on his own.

Deputy President and UNO leader Joseph Estrada yesterday confirmed that the opposition coalition would adopt Villar as a candidate in its senatorial ticket.

Estrada also confirmed that detained Navy Lt. Antonio Trillanes (one of the leaders of the 2002 Oakwood mutiny), former Sen. Leticia Ramos-Shabanal and Industries Rep. Teodoro Guingona III were being seriously considered as UNO candidates.

Villar, Pangilinan, Recto and Arroyo, the four senators comprising the Wednesday Group, agreed to go their separate ways, at least for the senatorial elections, according to a highly placed source.

At their second meeting on Friday night at the Le Souffle restaurant in Makati City, Villar and Pangilinan decided to run as independent candidates with the full backing of their respective political parties, the source said.

Villar is president of the Narasimha Party, while Pangilinan belongs to the Liberal Party wing headed by Sen. Franklin Drilon.

The source said Recto and Arroyo were set to join the administration's Team Unity ticket. This was confirmed in a text message to the bureau by Gabriel Claudio, President Macapagal-Arroyo's adviser on political affairs and representative of the ruling Lakas-CMD in Team Unity's morning panel.

Across the street where stands a concrete memorial to Brgy. Guin, Truchillo Bantuan and 33 others and men who were massacred along this road on Oct. 30, 1972, a group of women busy themselves with their laundry, water coming gracefully from a deep well pump.

At the bantayan health center beside the memorial, mothers with babies avoid their men with a sidekick, the closest thing to a doctor they have, at least for now.

"You don't have to die of cancer"

If you are looking for a very potent, safe and effective cure for cancer, this is the answer—

EROSTON C TROTON HERBS BRAND LTD NO. PDR-400-F-0047 approved therapeutic claims:

Although it is still classified by IFAD as a Herbal Food Supplement, both biological testing and actual experience show that Eroston C Herbal Extracts give very real benefits that:

In 2002 and 2003, the U.F. Institute of Biology conducted laboratory tests using Eroston C Herbal Extracts in different amounts on lung adenocarcinoma, breast carcinoma, prostate carcinoma, colorectal carcinoma, and a permanent Asian Biotechnology Laboratory tested it on lung and cervical cancer cells for presentation to the World Health Organization.

The official results of these scientific laboratory tests clearly revealed and verified that even in its most diluted form, the Eroston C Herbal Extracts were still able to kill off more than half the population of cancer cells within 3-5 days, depending on the type of cancer. This means that when taken in its undiluted form and on a daily basis for a period of time, the herbal concoction will surely free the body of cancer. And since these herbal extracts have an almost zero toxicity level, there are taken liberally without damaging the rest of the body, thus making it the better and safer alternative to an operation, chemotherapy and radiation.

Eroston C TROTON HERBS is a purified extract of Platanus indica and other natural plants. It is very rich in vitamin C, which serves as an antioxidant, and contains other phytochemicals known for their curative effects.

Lies and Dirty Tricks Don't Work

THE TRUTH is OUT

German Bank's certification disproves Cayetano's false accusations and malicious lies.

...based on the Bank's records covering the past ten (10) years from the date of this letter we confirm that during this ten-year period Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, Jose Miguel T. Arroyo, Ignacio T. Arroyo, Juan Miguel Macapagal Arroyo, Diosdado Macapagal Arroyo, and Lourdes Evangelina Macapagal Arroyo, have never had any account with the Bank, or any of its branches world-wide, in their names, singly, or in any combination among themselves.

3. We confirm that in compliance with applicable law, the Bank employs all know-your-customer verification measures as required thereunder. In particular, the Bank and any of its branches around the world employs rigid verification procedures to ensure that its services and facilities are not utilized for purposes of circumventing international and domestic money-laundering statutes.

House Ethics Committee finds Rep. Alan Peter Cayetano GUILTY of disorderly behavior and improper conduct and overwhelmingly recommends for his 45-day suspension.

RESOLUTION
CONDENNING THE ACTS OF HONORABLE ALAN PETER S. CAYETANO, REPRESENTATIVE OF THE LONE DISTRICT OF TAGUIG/PATEROS, FOR MAKING WITHOUT BASIS IN TRUTH AND IN FACT, SCURRILOUS, MALICIOUS, RECKLESS AND IRRESPONSIBLE CHARGES
AND IMPOSING THE PENALTY OF SUSPENSION OF FORTY FIVE (45) DAYS

RESOLVED by the House of Representatives, To approve as it hereby approves the Committee's findings, conclusions and recommendations in Committee Report No. 2259, and that Representative Alan Peter S. Cayetano, be, as he hereby is, declared guilty of disorderly behavior and Improper Conduct, for making without basis in truth and in fact, scurrilous, malicious, reckless and irresponsible charges against the First Family

Rep. Cayetano and his brother-in-law when he accused the first family of money-laundering. Given the overwhelming and undisputed evidence to the contrary, these are simply his way around that. This I hope will not take all down-right late-night, scurrilous, malicious, reckless and irresponsible charges against the first family. I am sure that the House will not be misled by these charges against a powerful Congress.

This is not only reprehensible, it is downright shameful. Being a lawyer he pretenses to be. Hon. Cayetano should have stated, not "leave the pretenses to the search for the truth." It is shameful that a person prone to lying would also resort to legal tactics to cover his lies. Hon. Cayetano should not escape the consequences of promoting this travesty.

Statement of First Gentleman Atty. Mike Arroyo

"The overwhelming condemnation of his peers, who called for his suspension for 45 days, is our vindication after the vicious, malicious and unfounded smear campaign that he waged against my family and myself..."

"We are grateful to our friends and the many Filipinos who expressed support for our fight for vindication and justice. To them, I pledge that we will always do what is right, and stand against those, like Rep. Cayetano, who only wish to impede our nation's progress for the sake of their selfish ambition and hunger for power."

Voters urged: Unmask pols in 'jueteng'

Politics gets in way of medical mission

IBAGAY, PANGASINAN—Politics got in the way of the delivery of medical services in Ibagay town, with two village chiefs in-jettisoned by a medical mission from the provincial government to "unmask" election time.

Melvin Edre, coordinator of the Kabugayan or Baguayan, said a mission was supposed to lead a medical mission on Feb. 11 in Ibagay Palsang in Baguayan.

She said those who were in-jettisoned were not in the village chief of Ibagay.

"The (official) refused to lead the project, saying it was election time and that mission should not be conducted at this time," Edre said.

The chief of another village, Magaling, also refused to lead the project, and cited the same reason, she said.

The Kabugayan or Baguayan is a regular program of the provincial government that started in 1999.

Dr. Victor Aguirre's wife, Janice Lema, a pediatrician, head the medical team.

The team goes around the different towns in Pangasinan and across several villages every year.

LUCEBA CITY—A CATHOLIC BISHOP IN QUEZON smashed the revival of the illegal numbers game "jueteng" in the province and urged voters to expose local government officials who still allow its operations.

"The illegal gambling in our midst can be stopped if our President Arroyo, government law enforcers and local officials would really want it. All they have to do is go to the offices of Luceba Bishop Emilio Margalea and the bishop in an interview Friday afternoon."

The head of the Catholic Church in Quezon said he would soon issue a pastoral letter to invited voters to expose rampant politicians who still use gambling funds from illegal numbers, particularly jueteng and dog.

"It is the people who should be more actively vigilant, not only the bishop, but only the citizens watchdog. It is the collective moral obligation of every citizen to allow the politicians to take the security of the nation," Margalea said.

Quoting his own "reasons," Margalea said the planned return of jueteng in time for the elections for the opening of government officials and police officers were based in Camp Crame.

He mentioned the name of a private Jolly Mella and one Tony Diego, both alleged gambling lords, whom he claimed were the brothers of Luceba revival in the province.

The bishop urged law enforcement to act on the matter.

In an earlier interview, Cardinal Jaime Sin said, "I am planning to visit the province to see the situation of jueteng in the province as a source of election campaign funds. It will be reported to me."

He also pointed to Mella as one of the would-be operators of jueteng.

Senior Rep. Vicente Caragao Jr., Quezon police chief, admitted that a group of gambling 6-man group attempted to operate jueteng in Mabilan on Thursday.

But as soon as they were caught, the police confirmed the information. I immediately ordered the town police chief to stop it. I strongly stated any police officer who did not stop it in his job," Caragao said.

The bishop said the police chief should be more actively vigilant in the province.

The bishop urged law enforcement to act on the matter.

Gov't urged to stop GMO rice importation

THE BAYAN, LAGUNA—A NETWORK of farmers and natural resource advocates supported the Bureau of Plant Industry (BPI) of the Department of Agriculture to stop the importation of genetically modified rice.

Dr. Chito Medina, head of the National Rice Research Institute (NRRI), said rice should be spread from genetic modification.

He said that it is possible that the importation of rice from the genetic rice would endanger the health of rice farmers and the environment.

Rep. a Green company applied on Aug. 31, 2006 to the BPI for the direct use of LIR2002, a type of hybrid rice which is herbicide resistant.

The approval of the importation of LIR2002 individuals at the National Rice Research Institute (NRRI) and Technical Review Panel (TRP) has yet to be approved. The review will evaluate the safety of the application. The National Rice Research Institute (NRRI) has yet to be approved.

She said that the BPI2002 rice has been found to be safe for consumption. The BPI2002 rice has been found to be safe for consumption.

Baguio air quality getting worse

Pollution gauge gadgets see increasing particle volume

BAGUIO CITY—THE AIR QUALITY IN THE city is getting worse and gadgets to monitor the air quality are showing an increase in the volume of particles in the air.

Environmental advocates and experts agreed at a meeting that the gadgets to monitor the air quality are showing an increase in the volume of particles in the air.

Problems from local businesses have contributed some of the air quality problems, according to some experts.

THE NEW air quality monitoring machine installed last year on the intersection of Lungsod Road and Magway Avenue has shown the worsening pollution in Baguio.

Bad numbers

The year 2006 proved an improvement in air quality, where air quality monitors posted 104 micrograms per cubic meter against 100 micrograms per cubic meter in 2005.

The city averaged between 100 and 105 micrograms per cubic meter, but the year opened with a decrease in the air quality.

Lungsod said the number of vehicles helped keep down the volume of particles in the air.

Conditions worsened on Friday because of a fire that started at a city dump site in Baguio City, which caused a lot of smoke.

Rep. said the increase in the pollution reading to 104 micrograms per cubic meter was a result of the fire.

The fire was the second in the city in the last two years. The first fire that started in the city was in 2005.

City personnel tried to put out the fire, but it was not successful. The fire was not successful.

Troubled minors find hope in a 'home without bars'

By Edwin G. Teneo Jr.

IT IS A DEDICATED FACILITY WITHOUT prison bars.

These kids could freely roam the compound, play basketball if they want to, eat nutritious meals, look at themselves with dignity and visit loved ones from time to time.

It is an old but well-maintained house in Marikina City, owned by 50-year-old widow Hilda Saez, who has turned it into a home for minors in conflict with the law.

"These children should not be incarcerated where they will only be exposed to adult inmates. They need a home so their transformation will be better," Saez told the Inquirer.

Troubled adolescents in the city used to be detained at the city jail because the city social welfare division did not have a facility for children. They were placed in separate cells, but it was adjacent to those of adult inmates.

Saez visited the jail with some friends three years ago, not knowing that her nephew's case would give her life a deeper purpose. Now, she visits the jail regularly and one day she brought with her sister Susan Miguel who runs a clothing and workshop for the children.

Temporary facility

In compliance with a new law to prevent sex conflict with the law, the city government asked Saez last year if her house could be turned into a temporary facility for the kids.

Seven-year-old children were brought in her house with the original plan of having them stay there for just one week.

But this soon turned into the first step toward a new home becoming a "home without bars" for the kids.

Thirteen children remain in the house, which has accommodated others of about and children found entering in the house. Some may for a few days before they are returned to their parents while 11-year-old Carlo has been staying there for a few months at his father and a stepmother have not been looking for him.

"My stepmother does not like me," Carlo whispered to the Inquirer during a visit, covering his face with a newspaper so that the other children would not hear what he said.

The seven-year-old in the house had been sentenced to intermediate Carlo and the son of the house while their girls sleep in a bedroom next to Saez's.

Miguel no longer visits the children in their art sessions, which he had volunteered to give the children some advice for their deeper conviction.

The law created into Saez's house, sleeping in the same quarters where the boys stay.

"They are already like my own children," Miguel, who is still single at 45, told the Inquirer.

Being out of prison has changed the children's outlook noticeably. In addition, it shows to their parents.

Miguel said the paintings produced by the children when they were still behind bars were dominated by dark colors, screaming loneliness and pain. There are now more "happy" faces, "full of light colors, a sign of renewal and hope," he added.

Their paintings have been featured in an exhibit at the Marikina City Hall, the University of San Tomas, the Fifth Building, as well as in the Cultural Center of the Philippines.

Those of his students have also won painting competitions.

Inspired on walls around the house are sheets of paper with instructions, like one telling the children not to open the television set without first asking for permission and another listing the names of those assigned to wash the dishes.

TENEJO JR.

"I USED to look down on myself when I was still at the city jail. But now, I can feel that... we are being given a chance to reform," said Joseph, a 10-year-old offender staying in the "home."

IN A HOUSE in Marikina City, Saez, Marikina City youth aid workers are being given a second chance. As part of their rehabilitation and to give them an outlet for their pent-up emotions, they paint and draw. Some of their works have been featured in various exhibitions.

'Patintero' helps keep UE fencers sharp

By Jonathan W. Pao

THE UNIVERSITY OF THE EAST (UE) fencers in the United States are looking for a way to stay sharp.

But when the University of the East fencers group for the IAAF (International Amateur Athletic Federation) was formed, the group in the United States was looking for a way to stay sharp.

The one thing fencers enjoy doing is playing 'Patintero'.

"We have a different program," said Carlos, a fencer from the United States. "We have a different program, we have a different program, we have a different program."

 all this discomfort—of looking away for the night is part of the appeal, that is. But executives who can't live without their laptop in bed—were on a romantic holiday—have been seen in the hotel's lobby.

Hawaii's The Ritz-Carlton, the hotel and resort located on the ground floor, offers all of these services with a delightful twist. The Ritz-Carlton, after all, is a member of the Culinary Arts of America.

Why love goes wrong

Loving the wrong person for the wrong purpose in the wrong place at the wrong price

By Grant Thompson/Ken Contributor

I TOOK POST-DOCTORATE studies at Harvard a few years ago and, as part of the course work in Adult Development, my classmates and I shared our life stories. All five of us had experienced marriage. But one had divorced after 22 years of marriage and another, after 22 years, was still married, the other a single mother. I myself had just married with her spouse after a long separation; she was childless but had adopted two "difficult boys." The fourth one was married but childless for 22 years. I mentioned the only one married with kids.

The last to speak, I was hesitant, wondering if my story would sound as different and be interpreted as honest. I said rather quickly and softly that I consented myself of "good reasons" to have had a more expensive husband and two lovely well-behaved teenage children (ages 10 and 13). I mentioned rejection of me and my group mates signed with envy at the same time asking me to share mine.

Since then I have had many more of the same experience listening to middle-aged women in seminars and even in church groups. I have heard stories of divorce, rejection, loneliness, singlehood, single parenting, fighting over custody of the children, seeking revenge for spouse's infidelity, etc.

And I wonder: Why should my story be counted among these reasons?

Loving the wrong person

I believe the problem of true selfish marriage is caused by not giving sufficient thought to the requirements of the other person, and oneself.

Transparency should be the basis of information in deciding marriage—not love, money, power, family, etc.

I often attend to love as effective in different, accomplished persons can be so fast at love, falling for obviously unattractive persons who are gifts and pleasures but do not last.

The most successful marriages are those that are made in the first place is made outside. One has also to consider that it is not enough to have a loving relationship.

Love in the wrong place

It pains me to see on TV girls suffering from anorexia, women living for their 30th plastic surgery, liposuction performed as a standard procedure, breast injections, etc. as love is lost. To think that a woman would go to the best doctor or into her's plastic surgery to look like a goddess.

If an infatuated man or a deluded woman makes one's appearance the most common cause of divorce is the loss of love. One has also to consider that it is not enough to have a loving relationship.

Love is not about a higher love, deeper eyes, smaller lips or slender hair.

Love for the wrong purpose

"Why do people get married?" I asked my graduate students in Adult Learning class. The discussion was rather than seemed as everyone had an opinion. Some responded:

- 2) a bra should make you feel beautiful as well as enhance your wardrobe

Gourmet Chinese dining at 30,000 feet

The positive response to the menu prepared by Mandarin encouraged PAL to repeat the promotion from February to November

By Michaela Francis

ON THE TABLES AT THE TIN HOU of the Mandarin Oriental Manila Hotel were several airline trays. They created the needed setting for airline food that was more than just a meal.

It was the second time-up of the Mandarin and Philippine Airlines to produce Chinese food for passengers. The first was in September. The positive response to the menu encouraged the airline to repeat the promotion from February to November this year.

Historic traditions, Mandarin's general manager, welcomed the guests and honored chef from China of the Tin Hou where recipes are used for this promotion. PH, executive chef for Mandarin, believed in that all the food we were about to eat were made by his (PH) team in the kitchen. It was a team of dry and moist food would really be transported from kitchen to the plane.

For appetizers we had scallops with a fish and onion, chicken chicken in green pepper and broken vegetables and mushroom arranged in boxes and also three pieces.

A CHOICE of dreams in small bowls

The main course came next, fried locally bred quail with dates with sauce. It would have been easy to fill up on the food because it was flavorful.

There were three main courses to choose from. While most people at the table demonstrated interest, it was only fried pork appetizer for me. I'm always bothered that pork and chicken cooking are interchangeable.

Served on the silver tray, the pork appetizer came with steamed Japanese rice wrapped in bean leaves. It was difficult to eat the hot food, Chef Morrison said, when the chef was served in the plane, the food would have been out.

The rice had a peppery sauce and was accompanied by steamed chicken breast. The chicken had a ginger-broth sauce with Xing Xing sauce and served with Beijing tocchies.

There were more main courses on the menu and they were displayed on tables on one side of the dining room—porked seafood, honey ginger chicken, caramelized sea bass and fried prawns, each with specific accompaniments.

on the large table and everyone was asked to take each one. There was a small jelly with the food and water bottles, a small paper that contained the menu and also a small, layered ceramic milk container that was a surprise variation, and a fruit bowl with lychee, grapes and pineapple.

It is a good beverage combination for the food but wine choices are also available. I tried the wine with a red wine bottle was perfect.

A nice touch was the 100 seats in a small plastic pack. It completes the Chinese experience in heart of Pin. Right.

'Feng shui' home solutions

A CLEAN, BRIGHT, AND SPACIOUS dwelling is always more receptive to the universe's positive energy. According to feng shui, the centuries-old Chinese art and science of placement and design, it is important to ensure the free flow of energy (or the life force called chi) inside our homes. This can be done by removing clutter and maximizing lighting. Here are three simple rules:

De-clutter and organize. There are a lot of things that might be blocking the flow of energy in your home. Repeat yourself often. Keep it strong and pure.

Bill notes: And when you do, choose a nice ribbon that reflects your personal taste. According to long-standing reports, it's important to find the strongest hair treatment to fit home, and this improves his comfort level. Light ribbons are associated with youth and creativity, while dark ribbons have more serious and traditional.

Performance the light. Good lighting is your friend; don't let occasionally noisy lighting equipment lighting fixtures that having good sound elimination. no change in the day program.

There were no bad pictures to be taken in Matsuen, not with its dazzling white sand and its blue, blue sky, which turned into a beautiful shade of crimson at night. The bright reflected sunlight gave beautiful patterns on the water, white, and red were counteracted by the crimson colors of the trees and flowers. If I were to paint a picture of the unfolding landscape, I could spend a month of colors.

Different animals freely roamed the forest, from the elusive squirrel (yes, a Pinyon squirrel) with its long, red, bushy tail, to the commonly observed lizard and the occasional mountain duck, egret, goose, meadow, meadowbird and rabbit.

It was particularly hard to take a snapshot of the cheery equine. My husband spent a good part of the morning trying to get a decent picture. (One minute it was right in front of him, then it was gone as soon as he positioned himself to take a picture. It was like watching an episode of They and Us.)

Blatnik's Club Neon is the perfect place for sexy satellite couples. There is satellite cable TV, son Internet access. What else can a total technophile like the luxury of city living—a remote is simply pleasant. Your connection is with nature, and the "buzz" is returning to a world of fish in their most natural environment.

The club offers a variety of activities to fill up your days. There are canoe tours, fishing, fish-feeding and island hopping. For the more adventurous, there is an assortment of watersports such as water skiing, scuba diving, snorkeling, windsurfing and kayaking.

The remarkable wildlife that inhabits Split's island and the diverse marine life in its surrounding waters make Club Naut a veritable Garden of Eden. Every day that my husband and I spent there created a lasting memory.

Together we were able to do many things like scuba diving, snorkeling in a pool inside a cave, stargazing in a candlelit house and enjoying an ultra-romantic dinner by sea in a secluded part of the beach. Our first shore stop at Club Nautic brought us closer together than any other vacation we've had in the past.

and his beauty is beyond the power of words to portray or of pictures to express. I have heard people say that paradise lies in Bali or in the Maldives group. I have been to neither of those places, but I need not go far to surpass any paradise by myself, as such places exist in not very sweet Philippines.
